MAD AT BINGHAM AND DAVIES

The local Junior Order of United American Mechanics are still real peeved over the Fraternal day fizzle and are still busy holding indignation meetings, passing resolutions, etc., condemning everyone that failed to march or take part in the celebration at the Armory.

They are so mad at the Kentucky Irish American for the expose of their little scheme to get a lot of free advertising out of a supposed fraternal day celebration that in every other line of their "Banner Builder" and "Louisville Council Booster" they vent their spleen on the editors of this paper, but at the same time pay a handsome compliment to its power and influence, when it is taken into consideration that the Kentucky Irish American was the only paper in the fraternal day celebration, and that opposition was due to the fact that it was planned to hold it under Junior Order auspices and with Junior motives controlling. The following is an extract from their bulletin relating to the parade:

The Juniors showed up well, but could have done better. HOWEVER, WE ARE NOT GOING TO CHIDE OUR WEAK-KNEED BROTHERS WHO HIDE BEHIND TELEPHONE POLES AND LOOKED ON, FOR FEAR OF BEING SEEN IN PUBLIC WITH THEIR UNITED BROTHERS. A guilty conscience needs no accusers, and next year courage will take place of cowardice and a demonstration of Juniors will parade the streets of Louisville that will make our patriotic friends of the Emerald Isle who have thrown so many buckets of cold water on this first attempt to grasp fraternal hands, regardless of political affiliations, sit up and take notice.

Notice the above, referring to the weak-kneed brothers who hid behind telephone poles, which to an outsider looks as if some of the Juniors were a little ashamed of their membership or the grand patriotic order as they usually style it, but the public at large would hardly expect the country's self-appointed defenders to hide behind telephone poles, which seems to be a habit, especially if we were at war. The writer even angles out one Junior, and says: "Stogie Rich Griffith was seen hiding behind a telephone pole on Fraternal day. Shame on you, Griffith. You are referring to the drill team part he grows flowery as follows:

The drill team came in sturdy profile, looking manly and determined, that gave credit to their respective councils. Then our boys in special white, emblematic of purity, that put the lie to the dark lantern charge of well-meaning, but misguided, citizens who are long on gab, but short on the essential gray matter, their small ego, compels them to make noise to attract attention that they really exist. Then came the rank and file, the hulk of modern society, the members in citizens' clothes, afoot, afoot and hocks.

Notice that last little bouquet about the hulk of society, which is humorous when, as was called attention to in these columns, not a dozen in line being known to anyone along the line of march, and even the name of the writer does not appear in this year's directory. But for real place look at this slam at Mayor Buschmeyer, Attorney W. W. Davies, Judge R. W. Bingham and Chief of Police Lindsay:

The Honorable Mayor, W. W. Davies and Robt. W. Bingham failed to show up. Perhaps they may explain some time in the future for this slap at fraternity when seeking a place in some political gift of 20,000 fraternal brothers. The Chief of Police did not honor this occasion with his presence on a pretext of too much work at the State Fair. However, other parades have been held, and no business was too urgent to find our police force in line. We did not need them, however, for the orders are well disciplined and can take care of themselves, but we extended the courtesy to indicate our high appreciation of our public servants.

Their appreciation of our public servants is pretty good when everyone realizes how the Juniors were busy at the last municipal election trying to get rid of these same public servants, and their threat of not supporting Mayor Buschmeyer and the other gentlemen is pretty weak, as they did their "durn'd" to beat Buschmeyer, and they will not support the other gentlemen mentioned unless subscribing to their principles of proscription.

Here is another little tribute to the Kentucky Irish American, which we take pleasure in reprinting, and wish to call attention to the fact that the prominent men referred to are limited, the only one mentioned

In the official organ of this society being Col. P. H. Callahan, to whom this paper paid its respects last week:

Owing to vicious attacks having been made on the J. O. U. A. M. and Banner Home in particular, by a certain publication in this city that has aroused the indignation of not only the Juniors, but other orders belonging to the Fraternal Association, steps have been taken to correct such savage attacks upon a movement intended to boost fraternal work. Letters have been received from men of prominence repudiating any connection with this paper claiming to represent certain religious ideas. The J. O. U. A. M. is in the field to stay, and Banner Council has nothing to say in private that it will not back up in public.

Jas. Pendragon, This is pretty sassy talk of the Juniors, but in reply it can be stated that whenever a movement is started with the purpose and intent of ostracizing Catholics, as in the recent Fraternal day plans, the Kentucky Irish American will not be to the front in denouncing the perpetrators, and if the recent affair was a Fraternal day for all societies WHY WERE THE CATHOLIC FRATERNAL ORDERS IGNORED? Then, again, if all were to meet on an equal footing why were the preliminary meetings called in the home of an organization whose members have as much use for members of the Catholic religion as the devil has for holy water, the principal leaders of which have carried their antipathy to politics, business and everywhere else? Pretty near the same condition of affairs existed in the recent Covington celebration, the Junior Order attempting to monopolize the parade feature and hog all the glory, which caused such a protest from other Covington societies that when matters were adjusted satisfactorily the Juniors became indignant, taking their old rags home and refusing to participate. As stated before, if there is to be a fraternal celebration in Louisville next year, let it be for all societies regardless of creed, and any attempt to the contrary will be met by hearty opposition in these columns, which as the Juniors concede compelled some of their members to hide behind telephone poles this year.

INTO NEW HOME.

Members and visitors who attended the meeting of Division 1, A. O. H., on Thursday night of last week, the first held in their new home in the Liederkrantz building, Sixth and Walnut, were pleased with the hall and expressed approval of the change of quarters. President Tarry occupied the chair and reported the proceedings of the State convention. Chairman Cleary reported none of the sick list, and after the regular business had been transacted Sergeant John Muloney, President of Division 3; Councilman Charles Finegan and Daniel O'Keefe, Secretary of the County Board, were called upon. They congratulated the division on its new home and predicted that success would follow the change. Thomas Keenan and Daniel McCarthy also delivered short addresses, in which were kind words and a tribute to County President Connolly. They counseled unity and fellowship among the members and urged their members to become active in the work of arousing interest in the division and order. President Tarry, before closing the meeting, pledged the new State Board his best efforts and his time for organization, saying he will leave nothing undone that will tend toward increasing the membership everywhere.

KNIGHTS OF ST. JOHN.

St. Michael's Commandery, Knights of St. John, turned out in large numbers last Sunday morning at St. Peter's church, where the members attended their anniversary high mass and received holy communion. The Rev. Father Edmund Krasner, the pastor, was the celebrant of the mass, and in the sermon dwelt eloquently on Knighthood, which exists today with but slight variation from that of the past ages. Urging the Knights to be firm in the faith, they should ever prove loyal and serve their God and country. Following the afternoon vespers the mass, and in the sermon Peter's Hall, when handsome gold medals were awarded to Col. Theo. Poppe, H. H. Schneider, Gus Oberhausen, Frank Howe and Leopold Steoth, who had been members for twenty-five years. The presentation was made by Father Krasner, who said the medals were but an outward sign of the heartfelt feelings of the members, who joined him in the hope that the five thus honored would receive the diamond medal of the Knights. The anniversary was concluded with a social session that all present enjoyed.

COVINGTON.

There is every prospect that the big torchlight parade to be given under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus at Covington on the evening of Discovery day will find a splendid representation from the various fraternal organizations of the city. The idea has met with a hearty response and the preliminary meetings are being attended by large numbers of delegates. The Knights have decided to take the last place in the parade, while the Foresters have asked for the second last place. The K. of C. division will be headed by John Weber's band, in addition to the organizations previously published the K. of C. committee has sent out invitations to other fraternal societies, including the Red Men, the Macabees, the Moose, Ben Hur, Catholic Knights of America and others.

OCTOBER

The Month That All Catholics
Devote to the Holy Rosary.

Impressive Religious Services
For Tomorrow at St. Louis
Bertrand's.

President Wilson Asks That All
Join and Pray For Peace.

GLORIOUS SIGN OF REDEMPTION

October is the month of the Holy Rosary, during which this, the foremost among the practices of piety which the church has approved in honor of Christ's Virgin Mother, is said every evening in nearly all our churches. No formula of prayer has done more excellent service for the church militant in her efforts to withstand the virulent attacks of her enemies from within, no less than from without the fold, than the rosary. We owe to it not alone the victory of the medieval church over the Albigensian heresy, but also the triumph of the faith in Ireland against the allurements of error and the persecutions of the penal code. In Germany, too, the rosary has been the people's comfort in time of trial.

The Feast of the Holy Rosary, instituted by Pope St. Pius V., recalls to us the victory won by the Christian army over the Turks at Lepanto, on October 7, 1571. It is always celebrated on the first Sunday in October. In Louisville the most elaborate and impressive celebration will take place at St. Louis Bertrand's church. At the solemn vespers there will be a parade of the sodalities and children carrying fifteen beautiful banners and presenting a scene but seldom witnessed.

President Wilson has also asked that Rosary Sunday be observed throughout the United States as a day of prayer for the restoration of peace, and therefore the attendance tomorrow should include every Catholic and our churches should be filled to their capacity.

Many will ask, what is the rosary? You smile, but do you know? The grains of which it is composed—it matters little whether they be pearl or coral, ivory or wood—merely serve to count the number of prayers to sustain and fix the attention of the mind and heart by sensible signs, but the cross attached to them is a sign of strength, life and salvation—the glorious sign of redemption—a sign ever memorable for Christians. Let us hear the words of Lacordaire—the eagle of the pulpit of Notre Dame de Paris—in his life of St. Dominic, the inspired author of the devotion of the rosary: "The conferences of the rosary are multiplied beyond number; there is hardly a Christian in the world that does not possess, under the name of the beads, a portion of the rosary. Who has not heard at eventide the grave voice of peasants reciting the Ave Maria in two choirs? Who has not met processions of pilgrims passing through their fingers the grains of the rosary, and charming the length of their journey by the alternative repetition of the name of Mary? Whenever anything becomes perpetual and universal it necessarily contains a mysterious harmony with the needs and the destinies of man. The rationalist smiles to see a procession of men pass by reciting the same words over and over again. He that is enlightened by a better light understands that love has but one word, and that in saying it forever it never repeats."

Imagine if you can a formula of prayer more universal, easier and better suited to the capacity of all, more sublime, and at the same time more simple. The rosary is a memorial, an abridgment of all Christianity; it is the breviary of all pious laics: It is an alphabet for simple souls, for children and for good old people. It is a learned, for men of genius, for those that wish to meditate deeply, it is a sublime book, the vastest compendium of theology; it is an immense and unfathomable sea, like the mysteries it commemorates.

The rosary is fit, some one will say, only for children, devotees, simple and ignorant persons. What! St. Dominic, founder of the Order of Friars Preachers, celebrated for his profound learning and his eloquent preaching—St. Dominic recited the rosary and he found in it more than his intelligence could fathom and his heart contain. What! St. Thomas Aquinas, the angelical doctor, the eagle of theology, who had fathomed the depths of metaphysics, who had gathered up and Christianized all that was true and beautiful in pagan antiquity—he who is even to this day considered the loftiest and vastest human intelligence. St. Thomas of Aquinas recited the rosary, and he found therein all the sublimity of his genius. What! Father Lacordaire, that magnificent intelligence, that noble heart, that thundering and asymptotic orator, that captivating apostle of enthusiasm and studious youth, wore his rosary at his girdle; he recited it, as did St. Dominic and St. Thomas, and he found in it an abyss for his mind and an ocean for his heart.

RECENT DEATHS.

Many friends sincerely mourn the death of Mrs. Gladys McDermott, beloved wife of Henry McDermott, who died Monday at her home, 1610 Dunsenil street. She was fifty years old, and her husband leaves several brothers and sisters. Mrs. McDermott was widely known for her charitable work and her loss will be felt in St. William's parish. Her funeral took place Wednesday morning, when requiem high mass, celebrated by Father George Connor, who also preached the funeral sermon, and a kind and well merited tribute to the memory of the deceased.

A large number of deeply sympathetic friends attended the funeral mass of Mrs. Lina E. Stutz, which was celebrated Wednesday morning in St. Brigid's church. Five months ago her husband, Oscar Stutz, was called to his eternal rest, and friends noticed that the grief of her heart never knew surrender until death. Mrs. Stutz was a native of Germany, but came to Louisville when a girl. She is survived by two sons, Oscar Stutz, who is in the wall paper business, and Frank M. Stutz, President of the Stratton & Terstege company; two daughters, Mrs. Josephine Schindler and Mrs. Lulu Howes, and eight grandchildren.

SURPRISE FOR MEMBERS.

The members of Division 4, A. O. H., were given the surprise of their lives on Monday evening, when entering their quarters in Bertrand Hall they found that since their last meeting the hall had been renovated, painted and decorated and electric lights installed with two chandeliers of handsome design. The improvements making it one of the prettiest and most convenient halls in the city. Reports on the recent State convention were made by the delegates and addresses were made by County President W. J. Connolly and John M. Maloney, President of Division 3, both discussing the proceedings of the convention and the changes in the by-laws that were adopted. The following list of alternates to the county convention were chosen: M. J. McDermott, Fred Mooney, J. J. Score, L. D. Meaney and Thomas Farrell. The convention will be held at Bertrand Hall on Sunday afternoon, October 11, and will convene at 2 o'clock.

SOUNDS STRANGE.

Those who for years read with interest the cablegrams of T. P. O'Connor, the Irish home rule leader in England, are surprised over his strange utterances since England declared war. O'Connor has recently abandoned the Irish volunteers and aligned himself with the English soldiery. His former admirers will find it hard to believe the following, which he sent the Sunday press from London:

In Liverpool last Monday night 14,000 people, mostly Tories, greeted with the same enthusiasm Winston Churchill, F. E. Smith and myself. Ireland becomes more fiercely anti-German daily since the outrage of Rheims followed Louvain. A few worthless cranks, who never did a stroke of real work in Ireland and obstructed the Irish party at every step and did their utmost to prevent a home rule victory, will shriek, but they represent not a half of 1 per cent. of the population. They are exhausting the patience of Redmond and all Ireland. They soon will disappear amid popular execration or go with the mighty tide of Irish anti-German sentiment.

IRELAND INVITED.

An Irish flavor will be given to the centenary celebrations of the independence of the South American republics, Argentina and Chile. Ireland is invited to participate in the celebrations in 1916, and a Commission from Argentina, T. J. Dunne has arrived in Ireland to collect memorials of Admiral William Brown, who was born in Foxford, County Mayo. Among the exhibits will be photographs of Foxford and of the house in which the naval hero was born. Chile will also send to Ireland for memorials of Admiral Brown, who was born in Foxford, County Mayo. Among the exhibits will be photographs of Foxford and of the house in which the naval hero was born. Chile will also send to Ireland for memorials of Admiral Brown, who was born in Foxford, County Mayo. BALTIMORE

American Federation of Catholic Societies Hold Annual Convention.

Bishop Schrembs Denounces Attitude of Secretary of State.

Immense Parade Tuesday Reviewed by Cardinal and Many Bishops.

TRIBUTE TO CARDINAL GIBBONS

Unity of action to accomplish the purposes and aims of the organization was the watchword at all of the gatherings held during the first day of the thirteenth annual convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies at Baltimore. The principal event was the opening of the convention on Sunday with a Pontifical mass at the Cathedral. Bishop Owen B. Corrigan was the celebrant of this mass, and Cardinal Gibbons, visiting Bishops, Monsignori and priests, as well as many seminary students and acolytes, were in the sanctuary. Bishop Joseph Schrembs, of Toledo, created a stir in the crowded edifice when, in the course of his sermon he denounced in unflinching terms the attitude of Secretary of State Bryan toward conditions in Mexico, and the alleged failure of Bryan to put into practice those principles he has so often outlined in brilliant rhetoric.

Bishop Schrembs began his sermon with a warm tribute to Cardinal Gibbons and the Baltimore, which he styled the cradle of the Catholic church in America. Gradually he led up to his point. "We must get away from petty selfishness," he said. "We must get away from the narrow parochial bonds; we must even loose sight of diocesan demarcation. Our endeavors and our spirit must be as broad as that charity dispensed to us by our Maker. We read in the papers today of some great wrongs being suffered by peoples of other lands. We remark how sorry we are for them—and then pass on to the next item of news. To show you what organized effort can do," continued the Bishop, "I will give an illustration. About a year ago a Jew in far-away Russia, was accused of ritual murder—that is, he was charged with taking the life of a Christian child that he might use the blood in a religious ceremony. When this charge was laid, the poor Jew found a Government only too ready to give credence to the charge. It was foreordained he should suffer the penalty of death. Then, what a righteous indignation stirred the world! What a storm of protest! Men of all faiths and men of no faith were appealed to by members of the Jewish faith the world over. It was their sense of justice and fairness that was appealed to. And the cry was heard, 'That solitary Jew was released, and the blot of ritual murder wiped from the escutcheon of the Jewish race.'"

"Let me pursue this illustration further. In Mexico, not one man, but thousands upon thousands of men and women have been outraged in their sacred religious convictions. Churches have been closed and destroyed. Priests and other religious have been exiled, tortured and in some instances brutally murdered. Nuns, devoted women who have sacrificed their lives in the service of their fellow creatures, have been taken from the cloisters and handed over to what is worse than death—to the shameful lust of a brutal soldiery."

"Where are those other powers who stand sponsor for those in authority in Mexico today. Who prevent other nations from coming in, yet do nothing themselves? Then it was that Bishop Schrembs made his reference to Bryan and the Cross of Gold speech, when he exclaimed 'a political genius, now in authority in the direction of the affairs of our country, cried out several years ago, in a moment of political exultation: 'You shall not press down the crown of thorns upon the brow of labor; you shall not cruelly maul upon the cross of gold!'"

"When that speech was uttered I applauded and remarked: 'Well done.' But, in this day, I am tempted to say to the political genius: 'Here indeed is a splendid field for translating rhetoric into action.' The Federation of Catholic Societies should become fully conscious of its duty to aid the downtrodden. To promote justice and to give protection to the outraged."

After the mass Cardinal Gibbons delivered the Papal blessing to the delegates after making a few remarks, in which he praised Bishop Schrembs for his address and welcomed the visitors to Baltimore. In the afternoon a session of the Social Service Commission was held with Bishop Muldoon presiding, when reports showing the growth of the social service work were read. Bishop Donahue preached at the vespers at night, and after the mass Schrembs for his address and welcomed the visitors to Baltimore. The convention was formally opened Monday morning. Tuesday night the feature was the grand concert of 5,000 voices, and on Tuesday the monster parade was held, passing in review before Cardinal Gibbons and many Bishops, the Governor, Mayor and large numbers of distinguished personages.

ELABORATE ANNIVERSARY.

With splendid and impressive religious ceremony the silver jubilee of the founding of the St. John Sick Benevolent Society was celebrated last Sunday at St. Vincent de Paul's church, Shelby and Oak streets, more than 300 members and friends of the society participating. The celebration began with a jubilee high mass at 6:30 o'clock in the morning, when the members received holy communion in a body. Father Thome was the celebrant of the mass, and also of the vespers in the afternoon, when the blessing of the handsome new silk flag of the society took place. Rev. Father Rudolph Ruff, formerly of St. Vincent de Paul's but now pastor of St. Patrick's at Stitham, preached a patriotic sermon on the flag and its significance, urging his hearers to never fail in their duty to their country and their church. The anniversary concluded with a sumptuous banquet at 8 o'clock in the evening, at which John Dodi, the first President and only living charter member, presided most happily as toastmaster. Right Rev. Bishop O'Donoghue and other members of the clergy and a number of prominent citizens were the guests of honor. When justice had been done the menu responses to toasts were made by Rev. Father Berresheim, Lieut. Gov. McDermott, Benedict Elder and Edward J. Reiss, for the past twelve years President of the society. This society was organized in 1839 by the Rev. Father John Heising and has a membership now of over 200 men. During its existence the St. John Society has done an incalculable amount of charity work and its influence has been widely felt.

GREAT HOLY NAME RALLY.

The annual rally of the Holy Name societies of Campbell and Kenton counties was held last Sunday at Bellevue. Indoor exercises were held in the morning at St. Anthony's church, while the great outdoor services were conducted in Spink's ball park. The parade consisted of seven divisions, each headed by a band. Over 12,000 men were in the parade, headed by the city officials, police and fire departments and the Grand Marshal and his staff, and marched over the principal streets of Bellevue and Dayton. Rev. J. M. Ahmann, of Covington, delivered the principal address of the day. Judge E. J. Kennedy, of West Covington, also spoke. Right Rev. C. P. Macs, Bishop of the Covington diocese, who returned from Europe Friday, reviewed the parade at St. Anthony's church. A male chorus of 100 voices under the direction of Prof. R. J. Schiffer, of Newport, furnished the music. The city was decorated with flags and bunting bearing the insignia of the Holy Name societies.

AWFUL DEATH.

George W. Everin, a well known railroad engineer, and Peter G. Allen, his fireman, met an awful fate on Friday, when their engine went down into a ravine on the L. & N. railroad between Turners and Engleish, where four spans of a wooden trestle gave way beneath the train's weight. Both men went down with the engine, and if not instantly killed were scalded to death. When the bodies were recovered they were removed to their homes in this city. Engineer Everin resided with his parents, Stephen and Helen Everin, 2933 South Third street. One brother and six sisters survive him. His funeral was held Sunday from Holy Name church, Rev. Father John O'Connor conducting the obsequies. The fireman resided at 747 South Eleventh street, and is survived by his wife and an infant child; his mother, Mrs. Mary A. Allen, and a brother and sister. He was twenty-three years old, and had been with the L. & N. since 1911. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at the Sacred Heart church, conducted by the Rev. Father Walsh.

LEXINGTON.

News was received in Lexington on Wednesday of the death of Sister Lucy, Mother Superior of St. Mary's Academy, Leonardtown, Md., who died last Tuesday. Before taking the veil she was Miss Mary Danahy, of Lexington, daughter of the late T. J. Danahy, who at one time was a member of the City Council. Sister Lucy was forty-three years old and had been a nun since 1896. Five years ago she was made Mother Superior of the Church of the Annunciation Academy at Pine Bluff, Ark., and was transferred to Maryland last June. John H. Danahy, of the Henry Clay Fire Insurance Company, of Lexington, is her brother, and Mrs. J. W. Foley and Miss Johanna Danahy are her sisters. Her burial took place at Nazareth on Friday.

HOLY HOUR.

Holy Hour devotions are now held at St. Patrick's and St. Louis Bertrand's churches every Thursday night from 7:30 to 8:30 o'clock, in honor of Christ's suffering in the Garden of Gethsemane. At both churches there is a noticeable increase in the attendance each week. The Very Rev. James P. Cronin, V. G., and his assistant, Rev. Father McAleer, alternate in conducting the services at St. Patrick's, and at St. Louis Bertrand's they are made impressive and attractive by Rev. Father Crowley, O. P., the prior.

Democratic Campaign Committee Confronts Hard Task In November.

EDUCATION BOARD CANDIDATES

Next Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6 and 7, will be registration days, and although nothing like the registration figures of last year are expected, nevertheless the leaders of all three parties are working hard to register their full strength. Last year in this city the Democrats registered 29,586, the Progressives 13,527, the Republicans 7,370 and the Independents 5,024, and in the election Buschmeyer, the Democratic nominee, polled 24,944; Axton, the Progressive nominee, 20,399, and Wood, the Republican nominee, 1,388.

This year the Democrats at a conservative estimate will have a registration of about 25,000, the Republicans about 8,000 and the Progressives about the same, the latter party being expected to lose heavily over their former figures. As Roosevelt in 1912 was responsible in a great measure for their strength, while many of Axton's followers last year were in that camp because of the municipal election and the promise of political pie, which latter feature, eliminated from this year's race, will probably rob the contest of any interest for the average local Bull Moose, and this is evidenced by the attempts of the local campaigners to secure Roosevelt for a rally with the intent of reviving the fast waning interest in the party.

On the other hand Roosevelt's continual play for the center of the stage and the calcium light has driven many late Progressive back into the ranks of the Republicans, the personal popularity of ex-Gov. Willson being in a measure responsible for this, while Burton Vance, his Progressive opponent for United States Senator, is practically unknown, and this also applies to Charles Gardner, the Progressive nominee in this district for Congress against Swagar Sherley.

The Louisville Herald is fighting desperately to revive interest in the Bull Moose party, but without much success. Their extensive advertising campaign has not had any effect and their persistent promises that Teddy is not trying to win Republican favor falling on deaf ears. Then, again, the Herald tells of stirring speeches by Messrs. Vance and Gardner at the Bull Moose meetings, and on reading stenographic reports and the reader finds nothing but a rehashing of the Buschmeyer-Axton contest and a discussion of politics instead of their views on the questions of today.

The State Democratic Campaign Committee is going to leave no stone unturned to aid in the election of Beckham for United States Senator, and this past week have made arrangements to bring Messrs. James and Congressman Stanley here for speeches in his interest, in addition to others of prominence, which indicates that the leaders take no stock in the claims of Ollie James, who in an interview at Washington claimed that Beckham would win by 50,000 majority. This estimate is ridiculous, especially when it is taken into consideration that in the counties which lately passed into the dry column because of the county unit bill there will be found hearty opposition, especially from the liquor men, who blame all of their troubles on Beckham and Jalecy, the two having taken all the credit for the county unit bill when it was passed in the Legislature.

There is no denying the fact that the Democratic party is in for a close fight in the Senatorial race, and this can be seen right here in Louisville, where men who never thought of bolting the Democratic ticket before were now lukewarm in their interest, and a great deal of missionary work is ahead of the Democratic Committee during the next month.

The announcement of the entrance of Ben W. Kling in the race for member of the Board of Education is expected to be followed by others, and there are rumors on the street that Phil Thompson, E. J. McElliot, Dr. Charles Edwards, Dr. W. A. Keller, Col. Herman Cohn, Dr. Charles Moir or others will be in the field, and no matter who they may be they will receive the support of those voters who, while hellewing in good government, find themselves under no obligation to support either Gottschalk or Weaver, who has bolted support of the agreed good government ticket in 1910.

LOCATED AT RANTOUL.

Sister Dolorita, of the Dominican order, after spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. O'Sullivan, of South Seventh street, is now stationed at Rantoul, Ill., where a new high school has been opened by the Dominican Sisters of Springfield. Sister Dolorita will have charge of the musical department.

MEXICAN OUTRAGES.

It is the humble opinion of the Catholic Union and Times that there have been American administrations which would not tolerate the outrages that have been perpetrated against Catholic priests and Sisters in Mexico. The dispatches state that these religious were driven to take refuge under the American flag at Vera Cruz as a result of the outrages committed upon them and the properties of their orders during the fighting of the last six months.

To be sure these people are not American citizens, but they are human beings deserving of courteous treatment, if nothing else. The State Department, however, feels that it can do nothing for them. It can not as much as write to the murderous Mexican officials expressing indignation at the scandalous manner in which they have treated the priests and teachers who have done more to enlighten and civilize Mexico than any other class of people. Mexico is in a sad state. Under the new regime most of the schools, convents and other institutions in which the refugees taught will not be permitted to re-open by the new Mexican Government. "Watchful waiting" has not brought peace, nor will it so long as highwaymen and red-handed revolutionists undertake to operate the Government.

SAVING THE YOUTH.

The efforts of public officials to check the causes and occasions of vice among the young is commendable. Every legitimate effort that looks to the eradication of dangerous dance halls, objectionable moving pictures and suggestive bill boards should be supported and encouraged. While the State has a duty to perform in this matter, it is well that parents do not forget their more fundamental duty. Their responsibility comes first. If parents will look carefully after the amusements and company of children, if they will prudently dictate the hours of their evening pleasures, the work of the public officer will be far more effective. Vigilance in the home is the best safeguard for boys and girls. It is here the real crusade against vice must begin. If all that is possible be done in the home the dangers of the outside will do little harm. When the home life is not what it should be the outside influence for good can accomplish nothing. It takes a miracle of God's grace to save the boy or girl whose parents are unmindful of their tremendous responsibilities.

CONCERNING IGNORANCE.

The "Guardians of Liberty have accused the Catholic hierarchy of keeping the followers of the church in ignorance. This absurd and untrue accusation impels the Rev. John Talbot Smith to ask the impartial non-Catholic churchman or layman to look over our educational institutions, from the humblest of our parochial schools to our great university at Washington, and then say if that accusation is just—and there isn't a hillside or valley from the orange groves of Florida to the pine-clad hills of Maine, across the vast area that lies between those pine-clad hills, joined as they are by the granite and marble-walled mountains of New Hampshire and Vermont, and the shores of the Pacific made glorious by the Golden Gate and its fruit-laden slopes, in which does not nestle, supported by the best citizenship of their time, Catholic schools and colleges, in which are taught only those things that speak for the welfare of this republic and the purity and loftiness of its citizenship—things that speak to the Catholic youth of his duty to his country, to his family and his faith, of those attributes that are required in these days to create and maintain the character of citizenship that bespeaks for our country's future and its welfare, that bespeaks for the continuity of the home and the safety of the republic.

The "Guardians" overlook the fact that the Catholics have adopted the public school system at their own cost, and have improved it by adding to it a religious education and system that have given to this country the best and most ideal type of citizenship that it enjoys.

THE PAPACY AND PEACE.

Europe will be continually face to face with the problem of maintaining peace and even when the war is over the problem will again arise in all its meaning and consequences. How to preserve peace is the momentous question that is ever facing the countries of Europe. Attempts to maintain the balance of power, attempts to preserve peace by preparing for war, by secret treaties, by intermarriages, and every other invention of diplomats, have failed and failed disastrously, and the consequences are beyond enumeration. So long as national pride and power is sought to be mingled with racial prejudice and hatred and commercial interest brought forward to make up any deficiency which might otherwise be lacking in a cause for war, Europe will be confronted with war, as it always has been. An institution like the Papacy is the only institution that could make any permanent move toward placing Europe upon a peace basis, the reason being that the Papacy is represented in every nation through its priests, bishops, nuns and laymen. The interest and influence of the Papacy in every country in Europe would make more for peace than has yet been done by all of Europe's diplomacy. The Pope enjoys an international position. The Papacy is itself a world power. It could have no special interest in one country that it would not have in another. It would not be to the interest of the Papacy to set the armies of one Catholic priest and bishop against the armies of another priest and bishop. Neither could the Papacy have an interest in the inconsistent spectacle of the bishops and priests of different countries praying for the success of the armies in which they are interested. The Pope as the arbitrator of peace in Europe would go a long way toward establishing Christian brotherhood and respect among the present warring nations and at the same time be the best guarantee of peace throughout these otherwise war-disposed countries.

The fact is being demonstrated by the registrations throughout the country that Republicans who two years ago joined the Progressive party are returning to their first love. The same is true of Democrats who joined the new movement. Do not take yourself more seriously than other people are in the habit of taking you. Many too serious chaps are looked upon as a joke. Think twice, and if need be a hundred times, before beginning to sputter in anger and ignorance. The man who cherishes resentment puts a good memory to no ignoble use.

Archbishop Riordan, of San Francisco, sums up the reasons for Catholic schools by asking: "Why do Catholics at great expense and with many sacrifices erect and maintain their own separate schools when the public schools of the State are free and open to them? Is it because they are enemies of the public schools? No. It is because the public schools do not give us all that we want. Catholics are not enemies of the public schools. The public schools belong to us as much as to anybody else. We have evidence of that when the tax collector comes around! No, we are not enemies of the public schools. But we believe that those schools do not go far enough in educating our children. We believe that children should be trained not only to know the needful things for this life, but also to learn the things that are needful for the life to come. This we feel is the first essential of education."

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS.

WANTS NO PARTY.

"We want no Catholic party in America," asserts the Catholic Universe, "and we want no anti-Catholic parties. We believe that the record of Catholics in this country entitles them to at least as much respect as those who tear the constitution to tatters, and go out under the banner of intolerance and religious hate to wage war against their Catholic fellow citizens. Without forming a Catholic party, we could raise the voices of our multiplied Catholic organizations against this injustice, and ask our fair-minded non-Catholic neighbors to espouse the cause of justice with us."

CLOSES TONIGHT.

The hazard which has been conducted at Liederkreis Hall the past few days for the benefit of St. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, will come to a close this evening, and Chairman E. J. Parker predicts that a handsome sum will be realized for this worthy charity. Many handsome prizes will be disposed of tonight and the winners in the different contests and awards will be announced.

Visitors at West Baden Springs last week included John F. Oetken and wife, Charles Wolfe and wife, J. Russell Gaines, E. T. Schmitt and William Zoeller, all of Louisville.

Misses Mary and Nellie Finegan left Monday on a visit to Dawson Springs, where they will be joined by their sister, Mrs. Peter Jennings, of Walls, Miss., who will also accompany them home for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. John Weiss announce the engagement of their daughter, Olivia Katherine, to Walter J. Naber, the ceremony to take place at Holy Cross church on Tuesday morning, October 20, at 9 o'clock.

Miss Meta Klostermann and Charles M. Lindenberger were united in marriage on Thursday of last week at St. Charles church, Rev. Father Raffo performing the ceremony. Upon their return from their wedding trip they will reside at 2600 West Chestnut street.

A largely attended and pretty wedding was solemnized with a nuptial mass at St. Cecilia's church Wednesday morning, when Miss Kathleen Larue became the bride of James J. McTigue. Both are popular in Catholic circles and the best wishes of a legion of friends follow them into their married life.

The marriage of Miss Edna Leona Winkels to Charles Thomas Johnson, was solemnized Friday morning at the Cathedral of the Assumption at 8 o'clock, the Rev. Eugene Donahue officiating. A breakfast was served at the residence of Amphion Bright immediately after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for a trip through the East and are now at home at 716 Lucas Place.

Miss Kathleen Lardner and James J. McTigue were united in marriage at St. Cecilia's church Wednesday morning, the attendants being Miss Bessie Lardner, a sister of the bride, and Lawrence D. Meaney. After a reception at the bride's home the newly wedded couple left on a wedding trip to Cincinnati, where they will be the guests of relatives, and on their return will go to housekeeping at 819 Cawthon street.

The marriage of Miss Allie Starr and Edward J. Wolfe will be solemnized next Thursday morning at St. Charles Borromeo church with a nuptial mass at 6 o'clock, Rev. Father Raffo conducting the ceremonies. Messrs. Frank Starr, a brother of the bride-to-be, and Emmett Hanrahan will act as attendants. After a reception at the bride's residence for the family and immediate friends the young couple will leave for an extended Eastern bridal tour, visiting Niagara Falls, New York and Philadelphia, where they will attend the world's series ball games. From there they will go to Washington for a couple of days as the guests of Joseph P. Hines, Congressman Sherley's Secretary, and on their return home will go to housekeeping at 1126 South Eighth street.

EXPIRED SUDDENLY.

While discussing the war with a friend, John Murphy, aged sixty-five, for years engaged in monument and stonemason work and residing at 2329 Montgomery street, became suddenly ill Wednesday afternoon on a market street car. He was carried into the Rosenheim drug store, at 438 West Market street, where he died before a physician could reach him. Deputy Coroner William Kammerer expressed the belief that death was due to heart disease. Mr. Murphy is survived by his widow and two daughters, Miss Catherine Murphy, a public school teacher, and Mrs. Walter Mitchell. His funeral was held yesterday morning from St. Cecilia's church, where many friends gathered to pay their last tribute of respect.

LUDLOW.

On October 11 a new council of the Knights of Columbus will be instituted in Ludlow. About 100 applications have been received, some of whom are members of the organization in Covington and others who will receive the initiatory degrees. Prominent members of the order from Cincinnati and vicinity will be present. The degree work will be in charge of the Council of the Knights of Columbus. The committee in charge is making elaborate preparations for the occasion, which will be followed by a banquet.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION.

The Jefferson County Federation of Catholic Societies will hold its monthly meeting Friday night at the Visitation Home, and it will be one of the most interesting held for some time past. President Peter S. Ganz will report the full proceedings of the national convention at Baltimore, where he attended as the representative from Kentucky. Secretary Thomas Dolan has prepared a letter to be sent the various Catholic societies, which will doubtless have the effect of increasing the attendance at the Federation meetings.

DOING CHURCH WORK.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of the Blessed Virgin Mary is doing some most commendable work for St. Cecilia's church. Every Friday night a lotto party is given at the home of one of the members, and with the proceeds the sodality furnishes church linens and flowers for the altars and also books for the young ladies' library. There are nearly a hundred members of the sodality, the officers of which are: Miss McRoberts, President; Miss Baule, Vice President; Miss Jacques, Secretary, and Miss Ferg, Librarian.

BENEFIT OF HOME.

Division 3, A. O. H., is now busy distributing combination books to their members and friends for the purpose of aiding the building fund of their new home on Portland avenue, and considering the small amount charged for the enclosed tickets a hearty response is expected to their appeal. The committee in charge of the plan announce that a euchre and lotto will be given at Heptastroph Hall on Thanksgiving eve, and the awards will be announced on that date.

CASPER AS HOST.

Dr. J. A. Casper, with the assistance of Herman Deddens, of Elventh and Broadway, acted as host to a party of his friends this last week at a turtle supper, the tickets being captured by the sodality in one of his early morning rambles on the Falls, and weighed about forty pounds, four pounds of which went to the guests, the host and Al Martin accounting for the rest.

AUTUMN EUCHRE.

The members of St. Brigid's parish are busy with arrangements for a mammoth autumn euchre, to be given on Thursday afternoon and evening, October 15, at Baxter and Hepburn avenue. There will be a number of pleasing features and all present will participate in the award of a special prize.

DEDICATION.

The new St. John's church on the Kibb, west of New Albany, will be solemnly blessed and dedicated on Sunday, October 11. Right Rev. Francis Silas Chatard, Bishop of Indianapolis, assisted by a number of visiting priests, will conduct the services.

VISITED HIS PARENTS.

Vincent C. Burke returned Monday from Chicago and Northern Indiana points to spend a few days with his parents on West Hill street.

EARLY IRISH SAINT.

St. Columba, whose name is borne by Rev. Father John Kallisher's church at Thirty-fifth and Market, was born in the north of Ireland in 521. Having been trained in piety and knowledge by St. Finian, he was advanced to the priesthood. After laboring for some years in his native country, St. Columba proceeded to Scotland, where he converted to the faith the Northern Picts. He built, in the island of Iona, a great monastery, which was for many years the center of learning in Scotland. St. Columba died in 597, after having founded and given a rule of life to upward of a hundred monasteries in Ireland and Scotland.

CHURCH IN RUSSIA.

In Russia there are about as many Catholics as are at present in the United States. There are 2,800 churches, 7,300 churches, 2,000 chapels, 4,000 secular priests. The regular or religious clergy number only 150 priests and 550 Sisters of Charity. It may be said that there is an average of one priest to every 2,000 Catholics.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest Members Here and Elsewhere.

Wisconsin Knights will continue their winter lecture bureau.

Gov. Ralston will attend the Discovery day banquet at Indianapolis.

Louisville Council will hold its annual election next Wednesday night.

There will be a big initiation in Milwaukee the last week of this month.

Covington and Newport are arranging to hold a joint initiation late this month.

This year the ladies will attend the Columbus day banquet of the local council.

Landing day will be celebrated in Columbus, Ohio, by the initiation of a class of sixty.

Rev. Thomas F. Sherman, S. J., son of Gen. Sherman, will speak at the Columbus day celebration at Scranton.

Tomorrow State Deputy Neege and the Fort Wayne team will exemplify the third degree at the institution of the new council at Versailles, Ohio.

Hon. William L. Taylor, former Attorney General and one of Indiana's most gifted speakers, will deliver the address on "Columbus the Discoverer" at the Indianapolis celebration on October 12.

Under the supervision of the St. Louis Chapter, special committees have been appointed by the various local councils to arrange for the financing of the St. Louis Catholic high schools. This action follows upon an appeal made by Archbishop Glennon.

ANSWERS FINAL SUMMONS.

With the passing of Dominick Martin last Sunday morning Louisville lost a respected citizen and a man who safeguarded the faith for more than three score years. Dominick Martin was a familiar personage in the community, and until ten years ago was with the Louisville & Nashville railroad, discharging his duties with fidelity and honor. He is survived by his wife, Margaret Martin; four daughters, Mrs. M. J. Leamey, wife of Lieut. Leamey, of the Seventh police district; Mrs. Edward Marshall and Misses Dell and Kathryn Martin, all of this city, and two sons, M. J. Martin, of Louisville, and Don P. Martin, City Treasurer of Paducah. The funeral was held Tuesday morning from St. John's church, when Rev. Father Schumann preached a feeling sermon and extolled the virtues of the deceased.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE.

The regular monthly meeting of the Central Committee, C. K. of A., will take place next Friday night in St. John's Hall, Clay and Walnut. President Ben Kruse and Treasurer Charles Baik will have information of special interest to the members, and therefore every branch of the Catholic Knights should be fully represented. Some business of real importance will be acted upon as well as consideration given to a programme for the winter's activities.

EUCHRE FRIDAY EVENING.

The ladies and gentlemen of St. Louis Bertrand's congregation will give another of their series of euchres and lotto next Friday evening in Bertrand Hall, the games to be called promptly at 8:30 o'clock. At the last affair of this kind, which was the first under the regime of Very Rev. Father Crowley, the new prior, over $400 was realized, which was donated to the church debt and improvement fund.

MARRIED IN CHICAGO.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Anderson, of Chicago, announced the marriage of their daughter, Gladys Marie, to Halpin Omur O'Reilly, which was quietly solemnized at their home on Friday, September 4. The Rev. Father Cabello officiated. The ceremony was followed by a supper, at which the decorations were white and pink. Among those who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Mawrey and Miss Lucy Eaton O'Reilly, of Louisville.

And the good that I can do.

INTERESTING CONVENTION.

An item in an Eastern paper the other day chronicled the ordination to the priesthood of a Jesuit, Rev. Louis Young, and the information was added that he was a grand nephew of the late Rev. Josue M. Young Bishop of Erie. Reading the item started a train of thought of the old days. Bishop Young was born in the little hamlet of Shapleigh, York county, Maine, close to the New Hampshire line, of Puritan parents—old time Congregationalists, and became a convert, it is said, through his setting in type—for he was a printer by trade—some Catholic manuscript.

BUFFALO'S CATHEDRAL.

Work on Bishop Colton's new Cathedral at Buffalo is progressing very satisfactorily. It looks now as if the beautiful structure would be in readiness for dedication next Easter Sunday, which will be April 4. There is every indication that this Cathedral, which will cost over $500,000, will also be free of debt and ready for consecration.

POLITE INDEED.

According to Canon O'Donnell, who recently returned from France, the cahmen of Paris are most polite. "One of them," he said, "although he overcharged me, got off his box seat and helped me to find the necessary words in my French-English dictionary so that I might say what I thought of him."

Literacy Test in the Immigration Bill Meets Strong Opposition.

CARDINAL OPENS THE SESSION

Delegates to the convention of the American Federation of Catholic Societies got down to business Monday and much of the preliminary work of the gathering was done at two business sessions. Cardinal Gibbons opened the morning session with prayer and the invocation at the afternoon session was by Bishop Currier, of Cuba. At the afternoon session the delegates listened to addresses by Bishop Althoff, of Belleville, Ill.; Bishop Donahue, of Wheeling, and Bishop Schrembs, of Toledo. At this session also addresses were made by Rev. Philip M. Gordon, one of the only two Indian Catholic priests, and by Whirlwind Soldier, a Sioux Indian, who is a delegate from the Indian Catholic societies to the convention. A warm reception, typical of Baltimore hospitality, was given the delegates to the convention at the Lyric at night. Rev. Dr. William A. Fletcher, rector of the Cathedral, presided at these exercises. Fourth degree Knights of Columbus formed the reception committee. On the stage Cardinal Gibbons, in his red robes, sat with Gov. Goldsborough on his right and Mayor Preston on his left. Father Fletcher introduced Gov. Goldsborough as the first speaker. The Governor, in an eloquent address, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the State of Maryland. He spoke of the great work which has been done in the past by Catholics, and paid glowing tribute to Cardinal Gibbons. The welcome of Mayor Preston and William P. Ryan, who were next introduced, was along similar lines. Charles L. Denechaud, President of the federation, replied for the delegates. Cardinal Gibbons brought the exercises to a close with reception of the stage, practically everyone in the hall going to the platform to greet the prelate. At the afternoon session Bishop Donahue devoted the principal part of his address to his work in aiding to defeat the literacy test in the Democratic Immigration bill, a measure which had been vetoed by Presidents Taft and Cleveland and as being subversive to the liberty and freedom of American citizenship. Bishop Althoff made a brief address on the work of the federation and praised the members of that body for the progressive steps they have taken to further education, religion and social welfare. Following the addresses by the Bishops, Rev. William Hughes, assistant director of the Indian Catholic Missions at Washington, was introduced. Father Hughes told of the work among the Indians and of their eagerness to learn. He was followed by Rev. Henry Westropp, the Jesuit priest in charge of the Indian mission work at the Rosebud Agency, South Dakota. Father Westropp brought with him to Baltimore two Sioux Indians, leaders of the tribe around Rosebud Agency. President Charles H. Denechaud, of the federation, read his annual report, in which he urged the Catholics of this country and those affiliated with the federation in particular, to take the initiative for world peace. Reports of the condition of the federation in the various States were also heard from members of the various delegations. The report of Secretary Matre was a comprehensive work, and told in detail of the accomplishments of the federation during the past year. Miss Leonora Meder, Commissioner of Public Welfare of Chicago, gave an interesting talk on social insurance, old age pensions, old age insurance, etc. A lengthy report on the work of the committee on public morals was also read. At Tuesday's session a resolution which requests President Wilson not to recognize the Government in Mexico until assurance is given that the religious and civil liberty of all Mexicans shall be guaranteed. This resolution was presented to the President on Wednesday by a committee composed of the following: Bishop Althoff, of St. Paul, N. J.; Congressman Fitzgerald, of New York; Rev. Richard W. Tierney, S. J., of New York, editor of America; Henry V. Cunningham, of Boston, and John Whelan, of New York. Another topic much discussed was the fight against Socialism, upon which resolutions were introduced on Wednesday. Tuesday afternoon was given over to the great parade, when 30,000 marchers were reviewed by Cardinal Gibbons, dignitaries of the Catholic church from many sections of the United States; Gov. Goldsborough and Mayor Preston. All voiced the same sentiment that it was one of the greatest affairs of its kind ever held, and by far exceeded the expectations of everyone.

Father Hughes told of the work among the Indians and of their eagerness to learn. He was followed by Rev. Henry Westropp, the Jesuit priest in charge of the Indian mission work at the Rosebud Agency, South Dakota. Father Westropp brought with him to Baltimore two Sioux Indians, leaders of the tribe around Rosebud Agency. President Charles H. Denechaud, of the federation, read his annual report, in which he urged the Catholics of this country and those affiliated with the federation in particular, to take the initiative for world peace. Reports of the condition of the federation in the various States were also heard from members of the various delegations. The report of Secretary Matre was a comprehensive work, and told in detail of the accomplishments of the federation during the past year. Miss Leonora Meder, Commissioner of Public Welfare of Chicago, gave an interesting talk on social insurance, old age pensions, old age insurance, etc. A lengthy report on the work of the committee on public morals was also read. At Tuesday's session a resolution which requests President Wilson not to recognize the Government in Mexico until assurance is given that the religious and civil liberty of all Mexicans shall be guaranteed. This resolution was presented to the President on Wednesday by a committee composed of the following: Bishop Althoff, of St. Paul, N. J.; Congressman Fitzgerald, of New York; Rev. Richard W. Tierney, S. J., of New York, editor of America; Henry V. Cunningham, of Boston, and John Whelan, of New York. Another topic much discussed was the fight against Socialism, upon which resolutions were introduced on Wednesday. Tuesday afternoon was given over to the great parade, when 30,000 marchers were reviewed by Cardinal Gibbons, dignitaries of the Catholic church from many sections of the United States; Gov. Goldsborough and Mayor Preston. All voiced the same sentiment that it was one of the greatest affairs of its kind ever held, and by far exceeded the expectations of everyone.

At the afternoon session Bishop Donahue devoted the principal part of his address to his work in aiding to defeat the literacy test in the Democratic Immigration bill, a measure which had been vetoed by Presidents Taft and Cleveland and as being subversive to the liberty and freedom of American citizenship. Bishop Althoff made a brief address on the work of the federation and praised the members of that body for the progressive steps they have taken to further education, religion and social welfare. Following the addresses by the Bishops, Rev. William Hughes, assistant director of the Indian Catholic Missions at Washington, was introduced. AMERICAN CHRONOLOGY.

Timely Record of Some Memorable Events in the Catholic History of America.

By James A. Rooney, LL. D.
October 5, 1910—St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, consecrated by Archbishop Farley, assisted by Cardinals Gibbons, Vannutelli and Logue, seventy other prelates and 100 priests, the date being the anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of St. Peter's church, Barclay street.
October 6, 1893—The Right Rev. Paul S. Roque appointed second Bishop of Sherbrooke, Canada; consecrated November 30.
October 7, 1885—Death at Baltimore of Dr. Richard Macsherry, President State Board of Health and Baltimore Academy of Medicine; born at Martinsburg, November 21, 1817; served in the navy from 1843 to 1851; voluminous writer of medical essays.
October 8, 1859—Father Francis M. Pandey, O. M. I., founded the Okanagan mission in the Canadian Northwest; author of grammar and dictionary of the Yakima language for the Yakima Indians, who are almost all Catholics.
October 9, 1776—Opening of the Mission Dolores San Francisco; founded by the Franciscan Fathers Francisco Palou and Pedro Benito Canibon; sixth of the twenty-one California Indian missions; cornerstone of the present church, oldest building in San Francisco, laid in 1782.
October 10, 1884—Death in Brooklyn of Capt. Dominick Lynch, U. S. N., grant of Dominick Lynch, early benefactor of the church in New York and one of the four laymen who signed the Catholic address to Washington on his election to the Presidency.

NEWEST IN STYLES.
Dyed laces are to be used.
All the new suits have longer coats.
One piece frocks are mostly of serge.
The all black hat of velvet is still popular.
Darker shades are noticed in the fall millinery.
The small hat is worn with the basque costume.
Coat shapes range from the short to the redingote.
The new tunics are not more than three yards wide.
The oriental note in dress has almost disappeared.
The old fashioned chenille embroidery has come back.
The silk jacket and short, loose coat are in good fashion.
The Japanese neck and the stand away collars are still good.
The feather trimmed hat is the fashionable hat this season.

DELAY THE MAILS.
Not the least of the derangements caused by the war is the transportation of the mails. Instead of a week, it now takes two weeks to get letters from Great Britain and Ireland, and over twenty days, instead of ten, from Italy.
PEACE SUNDAY.
The people who attend Catholic churches on Reary Sunday, October 4, will be asked to comply with the request of President Wilson that they pray God to bring the destructive war in Europe to a speedy end.

RECOMMEND CATHOLIC SCHOOLS

By James A. Rooney, LL. D.
How inspiring to the Catholics and the general public of Baltimore must have been the gorgeous ceremonial attending the assemblage of the first provincial council there eighty-five years ago, Sunday, October 4. Up to that time no such imposing Catholic ceremony had been held in the country. To be sure, there were only a few Bishops and other dignitaries present, for the original diocese of Baltimore, which up to 1808 embraced the entire United States, had only been divided twenty-one years; but those who took part were among the apostles and founders of the church, and the mention of their names now must inspire the Catholic reader with renewed ardor for the faith that has weathered so many persecutions and with perfect confidence that she will survive the present organized campaign of vilipendence and calumny. This council, the holding of which had been discussed for many years and which was finally approved by Leo XII, was attended by the following prelates:

The Right Rev. Benedict Joseph Fenwick, a Jesuit, an American of the Americans, a descendant of Cuthbert Fenwick, one of the original Catholic pilgrims who founded the colony of Maryland; in the prime of life at forty-seven and for four years Bishop of Boston; among the first students in Georgetown and later its President; Vicar General of Charleston, and a missionary of heroic zeal and ripe experience.
The Right Rev. Edward Dominic Fenwick, his cousin, a Dominican, an American and a Marylander, the first missionary sent to Ohio and the first Bishop of Cincinnati, sixty-one years old and seven years a Bishop.
The Right Rev. Benedict Joseph Flaget, a Frenchman, the friend and admirer of Washington, the last survivor of the Bishops consecrated by Archbishop Carroll; nineteen years in the episcopacy and, sixty-six years old.
The Right Rev. Joseph Rosati, an Italian, forty-three years old, co-worker with Father de Audreia in establishing the Congregation of the Mission in America and his successor as their Superior; first Bishop of St. Louis and three years in that see.

The Right Rev. John England, an Irishman, forty-three years old, consecrated nine years as Charleston's first Bishop, whose controversial writings and sermons were masterpieces of learning, logic and eloquence.
The Right Rev. John Baptist David, a Sulpician, for ten years coadjutor of Bishop Flaget, a Frenchman, sixty-eight years old and with a missionary experience antedating the century.
The Very Rev. William Matthews, Vicar General Apostolic of the diocese of Philadelphia.
Besides these there were present a number of distinguished theologians, many of them afterward Bishops, including the Rev. Francis Patrick Kenrick, afterward Bishop of Philadelphia and Secretary of the council; the Rev. Simon Gabriel Brute, afterward Bishop of Vincennes, and the Rev. Anthony Blanc, afterward the first Archbishop of New Orleans. Bishop Portier, of Mobile, and Bishop Dubois, of New York, were absent in Europe, the latter being represented by the Very Rev. John Power as theologian.
One of the incidents of the council was the admission to one of its sessions of three lawyers of high standing whose opinion had been solicited by the fathers of the council, namely Roger B. Taney, Attorney General of Maryland and afterward Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court; John Scott and William Read. The master of ceremonies was the Rev. John Joseph Mary Chaney, afterward first Bishop of Natchez.

The council was opened with a solemn Pontifical mass celebrated by Archbishop Whitfield, the Bishops attending in mitre and cope and forty priests in chasubles. After the mass a sermon was delivered by Bishop England and the pallium was conferred on the Archbishop by Bishop Fenwick. The council lasted until October 18 and thirty-eight decrees were adopted for the government of the church. They were confirmed by Pope Pius VIII., September 30, 1830. Among the important decrees were those abolishing the trustee system, one against the use of corrupt translations of the Bible and of catechisms and prayer books not approved, and one recommending the erection of Catholic schools and the preparation of Catholic text books.

Before leaving Baltimore the Bishops of the council in a body paid a visit to Doughorsan Manor, near the city, to pay their respects to Charles Carroll of Carrollton, the last surviving signer of the Declaration of Independence, who was then ninety-two years old and in perfect health.
The people who attend Catholic churches on Reary Sunday, October 4, will be asked to comply with the request of President Wilson that they pray God to bring the destructive war in Europe to a speedy end.

What the Club Plan Is And What It Means to You

The Club Plan is an extended payment plan instituted purely and simply for the convenience of our patrons who wish to buy Household Goods, such as Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, etc.

When you join the Club Plan you are asked to pay 3 per cent. of the amount of your purchases for joining; for instance

The membership fee on a $25.00 purchase would be 75c.

The membership fee on a $50.00 purchase would be $1.50.

The membership fee on greater purchases would of course be in proportion.

You are then asked to pay 10 per cent. of your total purchase as the first payment. For instance, on a $25.00 purchase you pay $2.50 down in addition to the membership fee, making a total of $3.25. The goods are then delivered to you and you arrange to pay the balance in small weekly or monthly payments.

When you consider that goods bought on the Club Plan are purchased at our cash prices—whether special or regular—you will more clearly see that our membership fee is nothing in comparison with the additional cost installment houses place on their goods for the privilege of time payments.

FURNITURE, CARPETS, RUGS, HOUSE FURNISHINGS AND OTHER HOUSEHOLD GOODS ARE SOLD ON THE CLUB PLAN.

Any further information regarding the Club Plan will be cheerfully given by our salespeople or at the Credit office on the fifth floor.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Pennsylvania has 311 divisions and 22,088 members.

Michigan gained 502 new members during the past two years.

The assets of the Ladies' Auxiliary aggregate about $350,000.

John T. Kenney, of Division 2, is a sure live wire for the order.

Division 3 will have an initiation in the latter part of next month.

Corporal Pat Kenney is always a welcome visitor at meetings of Division 4.

There were over 200 delegates in the recent county convention at Pittsburgh.

The county convention will be held at Bertrand Hall on Sunday, October 11.

The Hibernians of Youngstown, Ohio, will endeavor to double their membership this winter.

Congressman Daniel McGillicuddy, re-elected to Congress from Maine, is a member of the Ancient Order.

National President McLaughlin calls upon all divisions to engage in a nation-wide campaign for members.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Oregon held a successful convention and re-elected Mrs. Ellen Elvers as State President.

Financial Secretary Langan and Treasurer Finegan, of the County Board, have made an excellent pair of officers.

For sick and death benefits and charitable purposes the Ladies' Auxiliary expended $110,000 during the past two years.

Rev. Father M. A. Shine was unanimously elected State President for a second term by the Nebraska State convention.

Oregon Hibernians at their State convention commended the union existing with the National German-American Alliance.

At the county convention held at Nashua, N. H., it was reported that Hillsborough county had nearly 1,500 members, an increase of 130.

The formal opening of the new home of the divisions at Portland, Ore., took place Friday night, when a grand dedication social was held.

Walter Cusick received so much advertisement from his box party at the State convention that he will probably repeat here in the near future.

Major Edward Gallagher, State President of New Hampshire, is visiting the county conventions and arousing enthusiasm among the members.

During the two years' administration of Rev. Father Shine as State President the influence of the order has been greatly extended throughout Nebraska.

Division 2 held its monthly meeting Thursday night. From what the members say there will be a united movement to increase the strength of this division.

The meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary next Wednesday night will be made interesting by the election of County President, who will serve for the ensuing two years.

With the assistance of the National and State officers the New York County Board has pledged the metropolis to be soon second to none in membership in America.

One of the pleasant events of the Maine State convention was the presentation of a loving cup to ex-State President Thomas J. Robinson, of Lewiston, who then closed his second term.

Special notices have been sent the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, requesting their presence at the meeting next Wednesday night. Besides the election of County President there will be much business of importance.

Attorney Thomas Walsh and William J. Connelly, of Louisville, and Thomas Howard, Sr., of Ashland, comprise the Irish Literary Committee named by the State convention. They have the time and ability for some very effective work.

OPENS NEXT FRIDAY.

The autumn races at Churchill Downs will open next Friday and continue for eight days. With the turf stars of the country entered and fields filled to repletion, Manager Winn and his assistants will furnish sport that has never been surpassed here. The Falls City Handicap will be the opening day feature, and on Saturday, October 10, the Golden Rod Stakes, for which there is a great field of horses, will be run. On the follow-

WAS A GOOD SUNDAY

Church Road, Va., August, 1912.

I was suffering from nervous prostration about five years; at times was so weak that I trembled all over; my knees gave way first and then I was unable to move, but since I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic I feel stronger, can work again and walk all day without difficulty. The tonic was a godsend for me. I speak of its wonderful effect quite often.

Mrs. Paul Fuchs, of Uniontown, Wash., was often afflicted with unconsciousness, which disappeared after using Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic.

Mrs. M. Blunt, of Ashland, R. I., had a girl troubled with St. Vitus' Dance, which could not move herself for about six months, but since she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic it improved so much, as she did not when the doctor treated her.

A Valuable Book on Nervous Diseases and a Bottle of Nerve Tonic to any address. Four cents also get the medicine free. Prepared by Rev. Father Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., since 1876, and now by the CATHOLIC ENCYCLOPEDIA.

In offering a special edition of The Catholic Encyclopedia at a price that brings it within the means of every member of the order, the Knights of Columbus were actuated by the motive which originally inspired the production of this work.

This encyclopedia is designated to be the starting point of a movement among Catholics, a great educational movement in every Catholic home in the land, the source of a literature that will re-Catholicize the English tongue. It is a verily an educational and literary crusade, and as such it must appeal strongly to every member of an order whose members, in the words of Archbishop Ireland, "aim to be the trusted auxiliaries of the church, her organized chivalry, ever first and foremost when her call is heard or her banner leads." Here is an offer which brings all the advantages and more than the Catholic University can at present afford right into our own homes. The Catholic Encyclopedia is a veritable Catholic home university. It has been truly styled "a university in print."

MAJOR RIDGE IMPROVING.

Major Pat Ridge, Night Chief of Police, is rapidly improving from his illness of last week, but on the advice of his physician is compelled to take a complete rest before returning to duty. The Major's host of friends rejoice in his recovery.

MEICALE—O'REILLY.

Miss Annie Magdeline Meicall, of Owensboro, and Patrick O'Reilly, of Hardinsburg, Ky., were married at St. Paul's church in Owensboro with a nuptial mass. The ceremony was performed by a brother of the bride, the Rev. Father Charles H. Meicall, of Peoria, Ill.
